Why did we establish a Kindergarten?

Due to the fact that some of the female students already have children, we are asked by director Oscar about an establishment of a kindergarten. So the young mothers can concentrate on learning at the UJUZU na UFUNDI Institute, while they know their children well looked after in the adjoining kindergarten. In this way we enable the young people to live in better conditions.

The kindergarten also takes in the children of other parents from the area. Although schooling in Kenya is theoretically free of charge, many parents can not afford the costs of child care, tuition, food, school uniforms or textbooks. Kindergarten is not only playing and gaming, it is 80 % like a school:

As a result, especially the very young children can not attend kindergarten or pre-primary classes. Thus they may lack the initial knowledge for a successful visit to the subsequent elementary school. The reason for this is that the pre-primary classes are not the same as a kindergarten visit in Germany: In Kenya, the children already learn in the kindergarten Swahili and English, which are the official national languages. They learn how to calculate, write, read and have specialist lessons. After a maximum of three years, the children leave the kindergarten and switch to a state or private elementary school nearby.
